

IN SHORT

Tuning in to a piece of the past

When Radio City begins construction early next year on property that once belonged to the CBC, buyers will get a piece of history.

The builder, Context Developments, expects to take down the huge broadcasting tower that currently sits on the site at Jarvis near Carlton. It will be disassembled and distributed among the development's buyers. Any pieces left over will be given to the public.

To register for a piece of the tower, call the Radio City sales office at 416-963-0220.

—Star staff

RADIO CITY: Buyers can get a piece of the CBC broadcasting tower when it is disassembled to make way for these condos.